

Appendix L.2

Relative Abundance of Avian Species – March 2021
Completed for the Updated 2021 Beaver Dam Mine EIS

Relative Abundances of Avian Species. Beaver Dam Mine Project

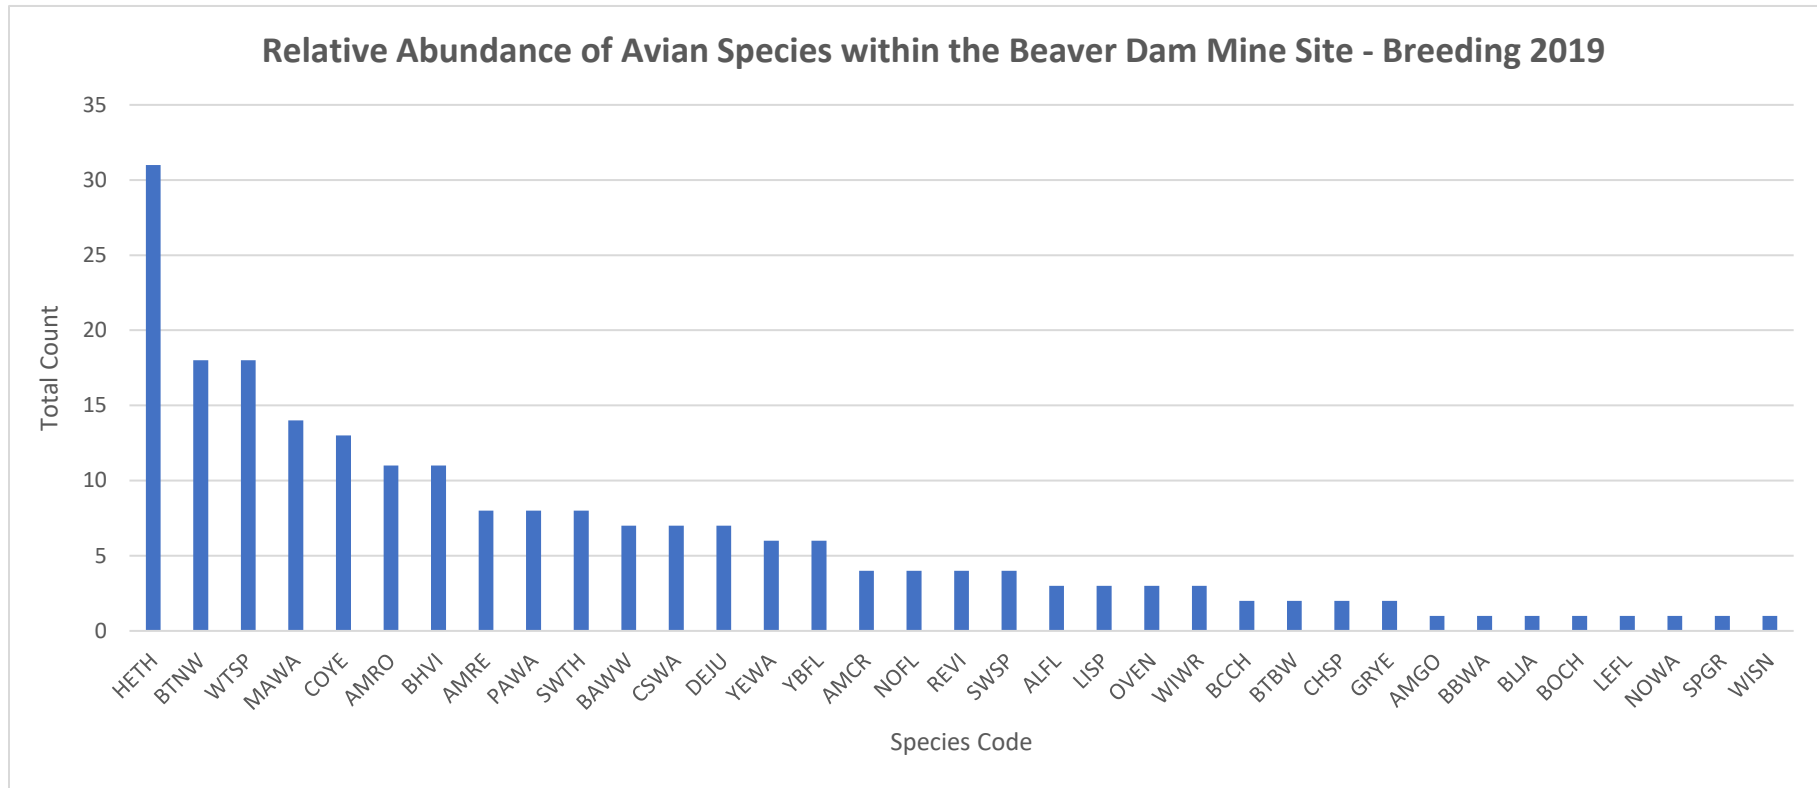

Figure 1: Relative abundance of avian species observed during dedicated breeding bird surveys in 2014. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015). Unknown species codes are: UNWA (Unknown Warbler) and UNWO (Unknown Woodpecker).

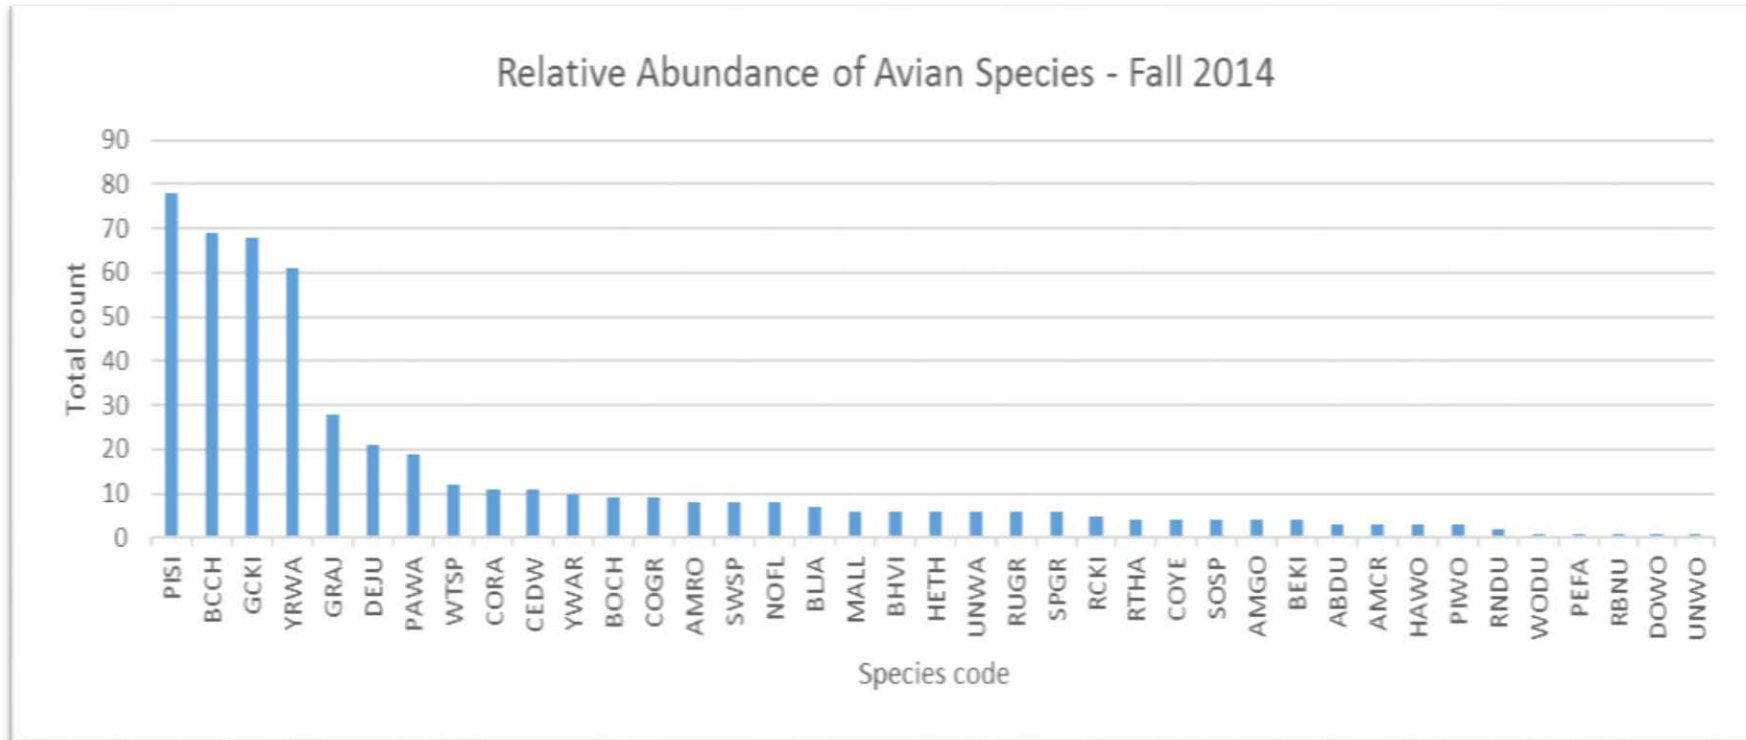

Figure 2: Relative abundance of avian species observed during dedicated fall migration surveys in 2014. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015). Unknown species codes are: UNWA (Unknown Warbler) and UNWO (Unknown Woodpecker).

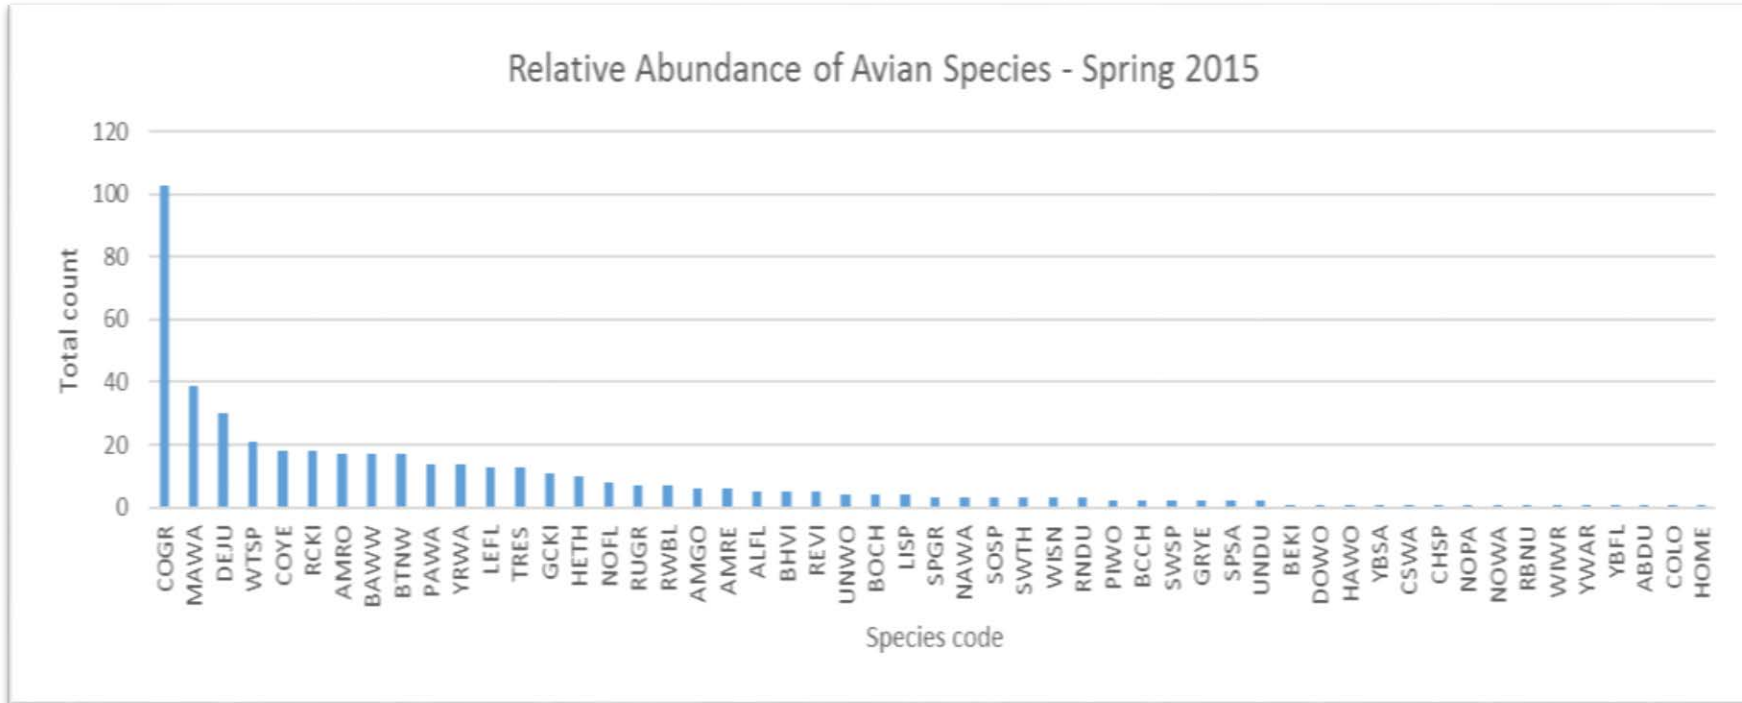

Figure 3: Relative abundance of avian species observed during spring migration surveys in 2015 within the mine footprint PA. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015). Unknown species code is: UNWO (Unknown Woodpecker).

Relative Abundances of Avian Species. Beaver Dam Mine Project

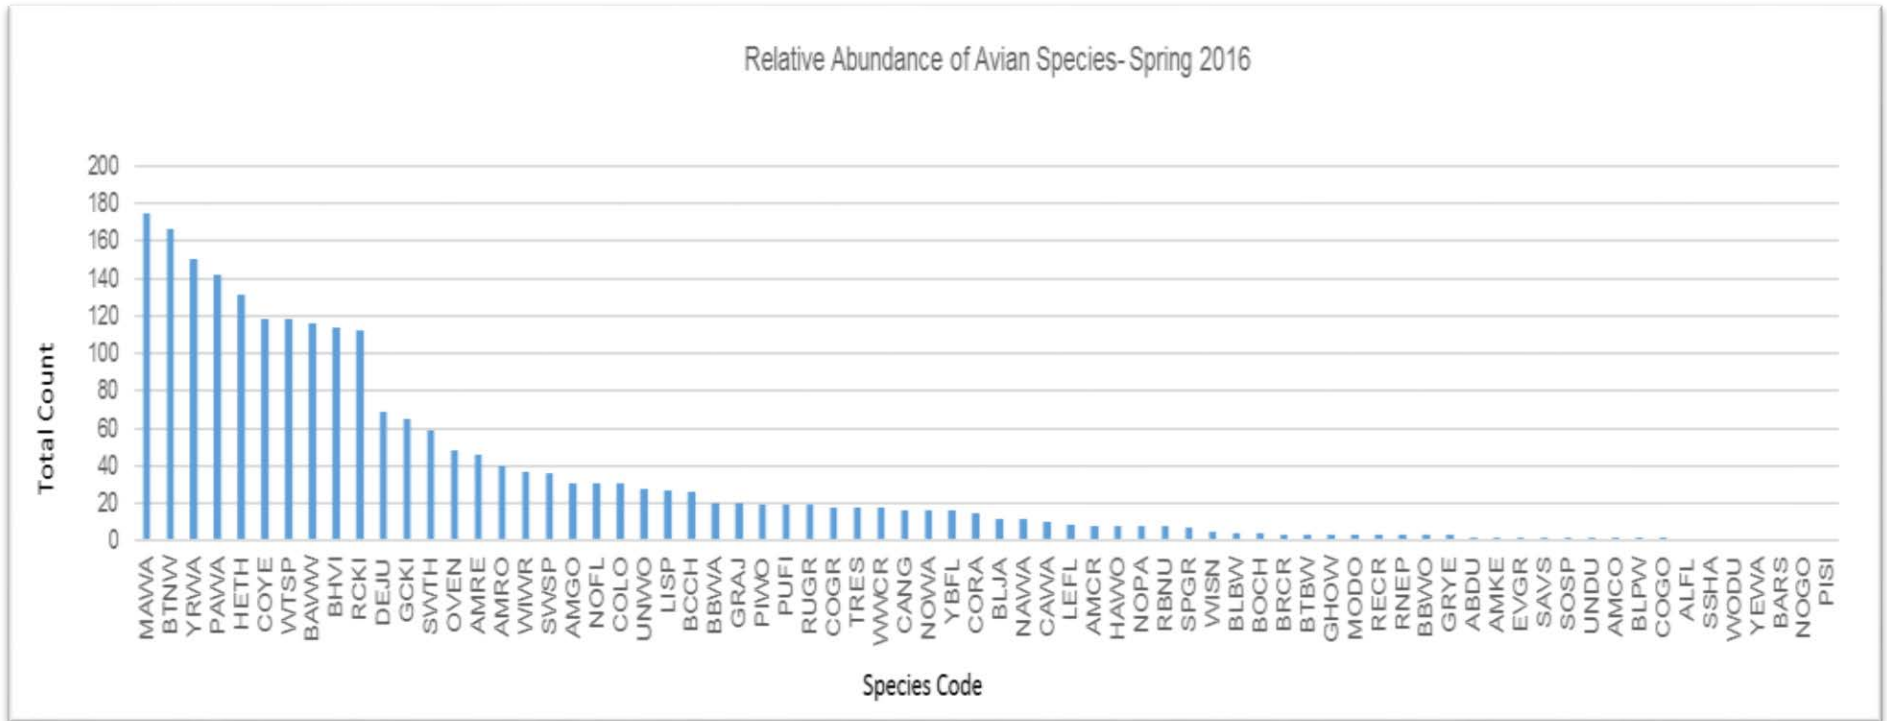

Figure 4: Relative abundance of avian species observed during spring migration surveys in 2016 within the haul road PA. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015). Unknown species codes are: UNDU (Unknown Duck) and UNWO (Unknown Woodpecker).

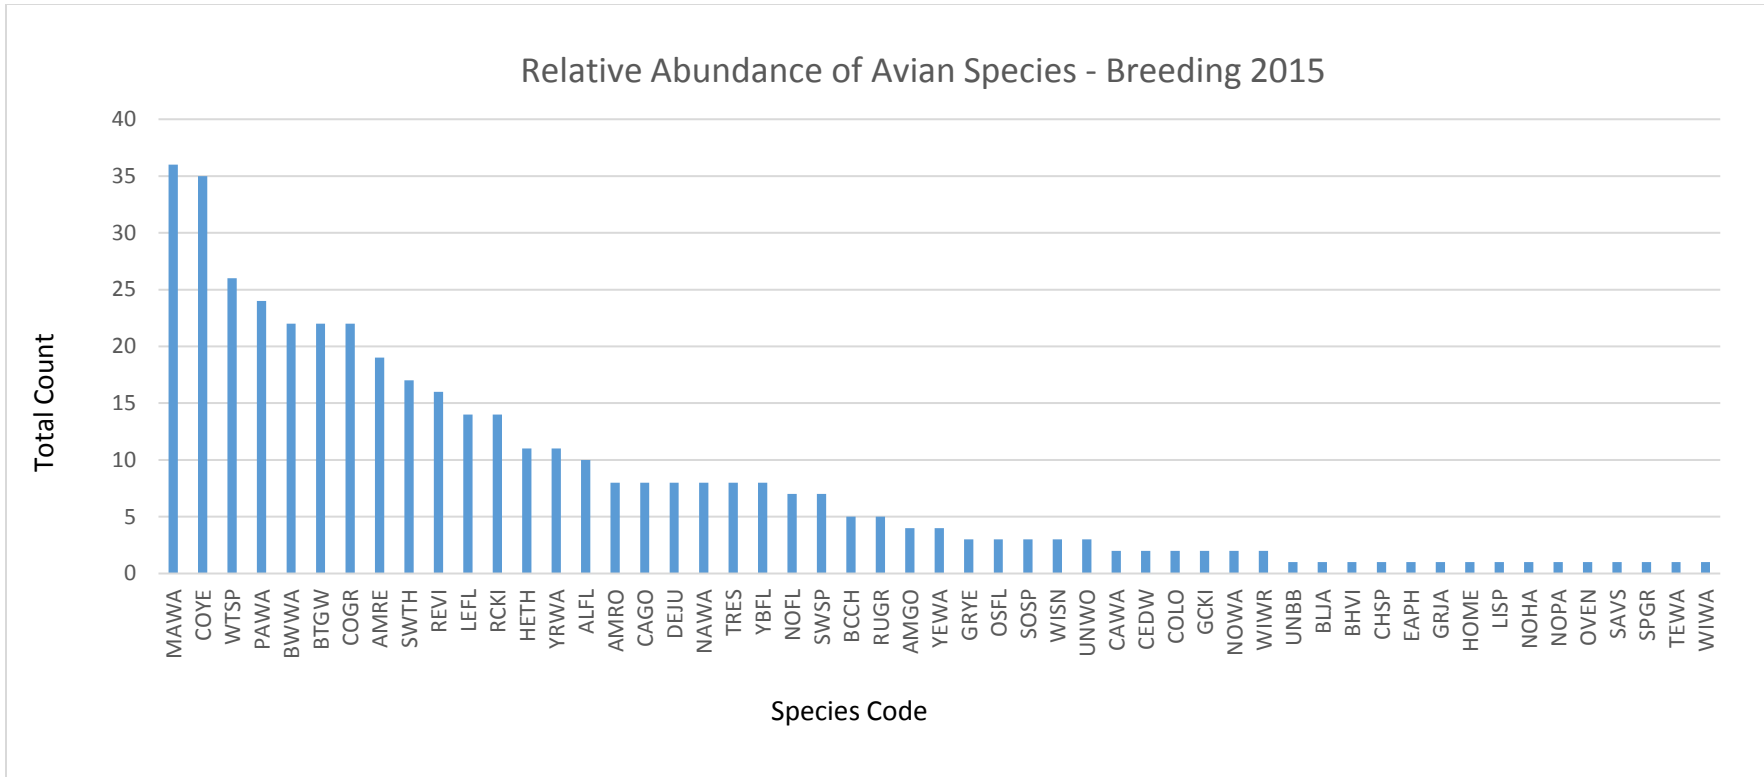

Figure 5: Relative abundance of avian species observed during breeding bird point count surveys in 2015. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015).

Figure 6: Relative abundance of avian species observed during breeding bird point count surveys in 2016. This chart presents the four-letter (English Name) alpha codes in accordance with the 56th supplement to the AOU Check-list of North American Birds (Chesser et al., 2015).