

INDIGENOUS ENGAGEMENT AND PARTNERSHIP PLAN FOR THE WEBEQUIE SUPPLY ROAD PROJECT IMPACT ASSESSMENT February 24, 2020

1. Introduction

On November 29, 2019, the Impact Assessment Agency of Canada (the Agency) determined that an impact assessment is required for the Webequie Supply Road Project.

This Indigenous Engagement and Partnership Plan outlines opportunities and methods for meaningful Agency-led consultation with potentially affected Indigenous groups throughout the impact assessment process for the Project. The Plan is intended to be flexible and does not preclude the Agency from making changes to the approaches described in this Plan, in consultation with Indigenous groups, in order to accommodate changes that may occur during the assessment process.

Throughout this document, "Indigenous groups" refers to Indigenous peoples associated by Nation, Band, geographic location, community roles and other shared values and identities. Within the context of the impact assessment process, the Agency encourages the early engagement of Chief and Council and other community leadership as well as the active participation of all sub-populations, including women, Elders, and youth..

For more information regarding Indigenous participation throughout the impact assessment process, please see the Agency's interim guidance at the following link: <https://www.canada.ca/en/impact-assessment-agency/services/policy-guidance/practitioners-guide-impact-assessment-act/interim-guidance-indigenous-participation-ia.html>

To complement this broader Indigenous Engagement and Partnership Plan, Indigenous group-specific consultation work plans may be developed to describe an Indigenous group's specific objectives for consultation, or any unique features of the impact assessment and consultation process pertaining to that community.

2. Description of the Webequie Supply Road Project

Webequie First Nation (the proponent) is proposing the construction and operation, including maintenance, of a 107-kilometre all-season road connecting the Webequie Airport and the McFaulds Lake area in northern Ontario. The corridor would be approximately 35 metres in width in order to accommodate a two-lane gravel surface industrial supply road and could enable future infrastructure development such as transmission lines and broadband. As proposed, the Webequie Supply Road Project would connect Webequie First Nation to existing mineral exploration activities and potential future mineral development in the Ring of Fire area. The project could also become part of a future all-season road network connecting Webequie First Nation and the Ring of Fire area to the provincial highway system in Nakina and/or Pickle Lake.

3. Objectives of Indigenous Engagement and Partnership

Impact Assessment Agency of Canada's Objectives

The plan for Indigenous engagement and partnership on this Project addresses:

- Crown consultation on the potential effects and impacts of the Project on the exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights of Indigenous peoples as defined in section 35 of the Constitution Act, 1982<sup>1</sup> (Aboriginal and Treaty rights);
- Consultation with Indigenous groups regarding Indigenous knowledge and how it may inform the consideration of potential effects of the Project and impacts on the exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights;
- Consultation with Indigenous groups to identify cultural considerations and customs that should be taken into account in project decision-making;

<sup>1</sup> Section 35 of the Constitution Act, 1982 states: (1) The existing aboriginal and treaty rights of the aboriginal peoples of Canada are hereby recognized and affirmed. (2) In this Act, "aboriginal peoples of Canada" includes the Indian, Inuit and Métis peoples of Canada. (3) For greater certainty, in subsection (1) "treaty rights" includes rights that now exist by way of land claims agreements or may be so acquired. (4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the aboriginal and treaty rights referred to in subsection (1) are guaranteed equally to male and female persons.

- Consultation with Indigenous groups throughout the impact assessment process with opportunities to provide comments on key documents and the broader consultation process; and
- Opportunities for collaboration with specific Indigenous groups on elements of the impact assessment.

Objectives Identified by Indigenous Groups during the Planning Phase

During the planning phase, some Indigenous groups identified values and objectives for Indigenous consultation for this Project. The Agency summarizes these as:

- Open and transparent communication;
- Consultation respects the diverse roles of First Nation communities within the project area;
- Consultation is early, meaningful and assesses, considers, and where appropriate, accommodates for adverse impacts on the exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights due to the Project;
- Evidence that project design and mitigation measures are informed by input from Indigenous groups and that input from Indigenous groups informs Crown action and decisions;
- Decisions related to the Project informed through broad and ongoing consultation;
- Decisions related to the Project informed by rights impact assessment;
- Decisions related to the Project informed by community concerns and traditional values; and,
- Decisions related to the Project informed by community input on the assessment of cumulative effects.

To view all comments received in relation to the Webequie Supply Road Project, please access the Canadian Impact Assessment Registry at <https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183/contributions>.

4. Indigenous Groups

The following is a list of Indigenous groups identified by the Agency for Crown consultation related to the impact assessment of the Project, on the basis that the Project may adversely impact the exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights. While these consultations are not a rights determination process, for purposes of consultation, the Crown will consult with the Indigenous groups listed below to understand the concerns and potential impacts of the Project on their exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights and, where appropriate make accommodations. The list of Indigenous groups below may change as more is understood about the adverse effects of the project; additional information is received from Indigenous groups; or if the project or its components change during the impact assessment process.

- Aroland First Nation
- Attawapiskat First Nation
- Eabametoong First Nation
- Fort Albany First Nation
- Kasabonika Lake First Nation
- Marten Falls First Nation
- Neskantaga First Nation
- Nibinamik First Nation
- Webequie First Nation
- Weenusk First Nation

For the purposes of good governance, the Agency also plans to provide information and discuss potential effects and impacts from the Project during each phase identified in Table 6.1. The consultation methods for the following Indigenous groups will be limited to direct mail and email distribution, Registry links to key documents, regular funding availability, and online comments on key documents throughout the impact assessment process.

- Constance Lake First Nation
- Ginoogaming First Nation
- Kitchenuhmaykoosib Inninuwug First Nation
- Long Lake #58 First Nation

The Government of Canada is committed to renewing the relationship with Indigenous peoples based on the recognition of rights, respect, cooperation and partnership. The Government of Canada is also committed to fully implement the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (the UN Declaration) in the Canadian context, as reaffirmed in the preamble of IAA. Through this plan the Agency supports the Government's commitment to advancing reconciliation with Indigenous groups.

In addition to this plan, the Agency plans to engage Indigenous organizations who have indicated an interest in the impact assessment process using the engagement tools and methods outlined in the Public Participation Plan (<https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183>). Accordingly, the Agency will also engage with Mushkegowuk Council who has indicated an interest in the impact assessment process.

5. Consultation Tools, and Methods

The following is a list of tools and methods identified by Indigenous groups during the Planning Phase, summarized by the Agency, to ensure meaningful consultation in the impact assessment process. The Agency-led consultation activities will use a suite of tools and methods, which includes:

- Capacity funding under the Funding Program to support Indigenous groups in participating in the impact assessment process
- Clear information on available funding, impact assessment process timelines, and the workload expected of Indigenous groups to ensure participation and consultation;
- Communicate with Indigenous groups in an ongoing, open, and transparent manner;
- Consideration of cultural needs including seasonal issues (e.g., harvesting, hunting) and cultural protocols (e.g. offering tobacco and providing gifts) and spirituality (opening prayers);
- Follow community consultation protocols in consultation activities, to the extent possible;
- Hold technical meetings with proponent, expert authorities and Indigenous groups to support Indigenous groups' technical review of key documents and participation throughout the impact assessment process while considering timelines and capacity of Indigenous groups;
- Outreach and consultation with Chief and Council or community leadership, Elders, youth, and women;
- Reasonable time for in-community visits;
- Requirements for diverse participation (e.g., accessibility of meeting locations, timing of meetings, transportation, childcare);
- Training on the impact assessment process and how to effectively participate in the process, including offering the Agency's Level 1 and Indigenous-focused Level 2 training;<sup>2</sup>
- Translators and/or interpreters to support meetings between Indigenous groups and the Crown; and
- User-friendly summaries of key documents, fact sheets, infographics, PowerPoint tools, booklets, audio-visual materials.

In addition, the Agency will explore opportunities for:

- Translation of key high-level summary documents into Ojibway, Oji-Cree, or Cree; and
- Flexible timelines to accommodate in-community communication and consultation processes.

The Agency will work bilaterally with individual Indigenous groups on items not listed above, in the development of an Indigenous group-specific consultation work plan.

6. Consultation Approach

The table below provides a description of the main phases in the impact assessment process and an explanation as to how the Agency, on behalf of the federal Crown, proposes to consult with Indigenous groups during each phase. This table describes objectives of each phase and consultation methods proposed throughout the impact assessment process.

<sup>2</sup> Level 1 and Indigenous-focused Level 2 training focus on the impact assessment process and is offered through the Agency's website at <https://www.iaac-aeic.gc.ca/014/index-eng.aspx>

Prior to the determination that an impact assessment was required, the Agency consulted with Indigenous groups on the Initial Project Description and prepared the Summary of Issues. Subsequently, the Agency provided the Summary of Issues to the proponent for response, including the key issues identified by Indigenous groups. The Agency sought input from Indigenous groups for the development of the draft Tailored Impact Statement Guidelines and the draft Indigenous Engagement and Partnership Plan (this document).

Specific Indigenous groups to whom the Crown owes a Duty to Consult and who wish to work with the Agency to identify consultation activities beyond those included within the Indigenous Engagement and Partnership Plan are welcome to express their interest in an Indigenous group-specific consultation work plan. The Agency will work with Indigenous groups to develop this plan, as needed.

Provincial Consultation Approaches

The Agency will coordinate Indigenous consultation activities with the Province of Ontario, to the extent possible. For information on how the Agency will work with the Province of Ontario please see the Cooperation Plan (<https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183>).

Proponent Engagement Approaches

For information on the proponent's future engagement plans with Indigenous groups during the impact assessment process, please see the draft Terms of Reference for the provincial Individual environmental assessment on the proponent's website: <http://www.supplyroad.ca/>. During the planning phase, Indigenous groups identified the expectation that the proponent should maintain regular contact with Indigenous groups as the Project progresses and share project details and plans.

The Agency expects the proponent to include Indigenous knowledge and cultural considerations in the preparation of the Impact Statement that has been validated by the Indigenous groups who provide it, prior to formally submitting it to the Agency for review.

The Agency will organize a series of meetings in coordination with the proponent to discuss technical matters as it progresses through its baseline data collection, effects assessment, and mitigation and follow-up program development. After each stage of this process, the proponent will participate in meetings with the Agency, federal authorities and Indigenous group to discuss technical matters. For more detail on Agency expectations of the proponent, please see the Tailored Impact Statement Guidelines (<https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183>).

7. Participant Funding

During the planning phase grant funding was made available to Indigenous groups to support comment on the Initial Project Description, the draft Tailored Impact Statement Guidelines, and the draft Indigenous Engagement and Partnership Plan.

Funding is also available to support Indigenous groups to participate throughout the impact assessment process. The opportunity to submit applications for funding will be made available to the Indigenous groups during the impact statement phase. These participant-funding opportunities will support the Indigenous groups to comment on the proponent's Impact Statement and the Agency's draft Impact Assessment Report, including consultation summary, and potential conditions.

For information about the activities that are eligible for funding or to apply for funding, see the National Program Guidelines and application on the following page <https://www.canada.ca/en/impact-assessment-agency/services/public-participation/participant-funding-application-environmental-assessment.htm>

8. Federal Agencies' Roles and Responsibilities

The Regulatory Permitting Plan also issued at the end of the planning phase describes the permits and authorizations that may be required for the Project to proceed (<https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183>).

Federal authorities identified in the Permitting Plan as well as those with additional expert advice (Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs; Economic and Social Development Canada; Health Canada; Indigenous Services Canada; Infrastructure Canada; Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada including Federal Economic Development Initiative for Northern Ontario (FedNor); and Women and Gender Equality) will engage with the Agency, proponent, Indigenous groups and other parties to clarify information requirements related to its specialist or expert information and knowledge. Throughout the impact assessment process, federal authorities may also review and analyze the proponent's Impact Statement and the Agency's draft Impact Assessment report; support and participate in the Agency's Crown consultation activities; and support the Agency and Indigenous groups in understanding, assessing and addressing impacts on the exercise of Aboriginal and Treaty rights.

9. How to submit comments and contact information

Comments can be submitted at any time during project assessment via the "submit a comment" feature available on the Project's Canadian Impact Assessment Registry page (Reference No. 80183 at <https://iaac-aeic.gc.ca/050/evaluations/proj/80183>.) Attachments can also be uploaded using this feature. If you have any difficulties submitting this way, please contact the Agency using the information provided below for assistance.

Comments and other documents received by the Agency will form part of the Project File and will be posted on the Canadian Impact Assessment Registry internet site. The Agency's Submission Policy<sup>3</sup> determines which submitted information can be shared publicly, and what should remain private. For further information on how we protect your privacy, please refer to the Privacy Notice<sup>4</sup>. If you do not want your comment posted on the Registry, please contact Agency prior to submitting the comment.

A summary of comments received throughout the impact assessment process will also be included in the Impact Assessment Report.
